Welcome to the Islands of Guernsey

We are a beautiful archipelago of Islands, with one of the strongest, proudest communities in the world. Our response to COVID-19 has been recognised around the globe. As a result of strict border controls, and an amazing #GuernseyTogether spirit, Islanders have lived largely free of restrictions.

Sadly, that meant we couldn’t see you, and we missed you more than you know.

Safety has been our number one priority and, as we gently open our arms to welcome you back, you will be embraced into the safe and welcoming environment that we are so proud to have nurtured here on the Islands.

While we have all been adjusting to the new normal, what we have longed for is the old normal. When we could meet up, cuddle up, socialise and dance; when masks were just part of your child’s superhero costume and the closest you got to social distancing was having your favourite beach to yourself.

If you have missed quality time with people you love, it’s time to reconnect, and there’s no better place to do it than the Islands of Guernsey.

Just a 30–minute flight or a 3–hour ferry crossing from the UK, our five Islands of Guernsey, Herm, Sark, Alderney and Lihou each have their own unique character, landscape and identity.

We have been looking after this very special corner of the British Isles while you’ve been gone, but it’s time to come back. It’s time to let us look after you, you will be in safe hands.

Take a deep breath. The smallest journeys can lead to the biggest adventures.

‘Even the darkest night will end and the sun will rise again.’
Victor Hugo.

We’ve been keeping your seat warm

We know many of you are longing to return to your favourite spot.

Maybe it’s enjoying a glass (or two) of something watching a west coast sunset, taking a deep breath on our south coast cliffs or standing on the back of the ferry, Island hopping to your favourite beach.

Like everywhere else in the World, the impact of COVID-19 on our community has been far-reaching. Commonly referred to as donkeys because of their stubbornness, we Islanders worked together to ensure we kept our Island, and its community, as safe as possible.

We became more unified and more focused, with a common goal.

Lockdowns saw Islanders use their time at home to start up cottage industries which have resulted in a flurry of new small businesses that are just waiting for visitors to enjoy (all of which have already become firm favourites with us locals).

We have used the time wisely while you have been gone. We have repaired and rebuilt, improved and extended. When you come back, you may find a new spa in your favourite hotel, a new series of walks in your favourite island and a new hedge row stall on your favourite stroll through our leafy lanes.

We looked after each other, and we have looked after our Island home. But we are really looking forward to welcoming back you, our extended family.
Take a deep breath

It’s time to get out. Get out of your house, get out of your country and get out of your comfort zone.

If you’ve missed the fresh air, the big open spaces and the great outdoors, we are ready and waiting to welcome you back.

From our cliff path routes to clear waters, pristine golf courses to cycle routes, choose your own pace to reconnect with the outdoors in our beautiful Islands.

Our smallest Islands, Herm and Lihou, can only be explored on foot, while cycling offers a fantastic way to get around Sark, Alderney and Guernsey. Meander down the rural paths and quieter roads, and have a mooch. Find charming hedge veg stalls and secret views that you’d miss from the main road.

For more serious cyclists, there are 14 official bike tours, ranging from 6 to 12 miles, for all ability levels. Plan your adventure on two wheels at visitguernsey.com/cycling.

If golf is your thing, there are four golf courses on the Islands – three in Guernsey, and one on Alderney, as well as a driving range and even mini and adventure golf for those who take the game a little less seriously.

St Peter Port – your kind of town

St Peter Port is a charming seafront town, where the streets are festooned with bunting and tumbling floral displays and the cobbled streets are home to resident buskers through the warm, summer months. It’s a town that makes you smile as you walk through, where everyone says hello. It’s a town that makes you feel at home.

Safe and welcoming, St Peter Port has a distinct Mediterranean feel with unique, independent shops. It’s also really sociable, with cafés, restaurants and bars throwing open their doors from Spring to Autumn, allowing people to spill out onto the pavements and seafront to enjoy the fresh air and lovely views.

St Peter Port is small but perfectly formed. Just a five minute walk from the High Street, you can be sat on a sandy beach, overlooking Castle Cornet and our sister Islands beyond. Stroll a little further and you’ll be on the cliff paths taking you to glorious secluded bays around the headland. Herm

With its clear turquoise seas, Herm is often likened to a Caribbean, rather than British, island.

Herm can easily be explored on foot in just 2 – 3 hours, with stunning coastal scenery, lush greenery, and unspoilt beaches. Shell Beach and Belvoir Bay have gloriously soft white sand made from millions of tiny shell fragments washed up by the Gulf Stream, and Herm’s cliffs are home to Europe’s most southerly puffin-breeding colony.

The island’s award-winning gardening team has created a new nature trail quiz offering fantastic picture boards detailing the island’s diverse range of birds, insects, marine and plant life.

This tiny car-free island is just 20 minutes by boat from Guernsey and perfect for a day trip or a longer stay, with a beautiful hotel, 20 holiday cottages, a campsite, shop and two pubs.

If you’re really lucky, you’ll be joined on the trip over by dolphins, who love to play in the wake of the boat. Herm is a magical part of the world, and a wonderful place to soak up the peace and truly relax.

Herm really is paradise right on our doorstep!

Sark

Just a 50–minute boat ride from Guernsey, Sark feels an entire world away. With no cars, the Island’s pace depends on your own – will you explore on foot, bike or horse and carriage?

With one of the most unique High Streets in the British Isles, the unpaved roads weave across Sark’s beautiful landscape revealing hidden bays, great places to eat and even an RHS-recommended garden at La Seigneurie.

A trip to Sark isn’t complete without a walk across La Coupée, one of the most breathtaking spots in the Bailiwick. With dramatic drops either side, this centuries-old narrow isthmus that joins Sark to Little Sark is not for the faint hearted, but you will be rewarded with incredible views of the islands.

In 2011, Sark was the world’s first designated dark sky island. There are no street lights so, on a clear night, you’ll be rewarded with a truly spectacular, star-studded show.

Sark
Alderney

With stunning sandy beaches, a great selection of places to eat, a fascinating history and wildlife unique to the Island, Alderney is the third largest of the Channel Islands.

If you love wildlife then you will love Alderney! Best known for being home to the blonde hedgehog, more than 8,000 pairs of Gannets and just over 100 pairs of puffins choose to make Alderney their home in each year.

There are plenty of ways to see the Island, but hopping aboard the only working railway in the Channel Islands is the most fun.

Alderney offers a relaxed way of life, in a safe environment, where quality time is easy to find. Where a beach or stunning cliff top view is at the end of every road and path. Where every experience is authentic.

Come on over, we’re just a 15 minute flight or an hour-long ferry journey away.

Lihou

It sounds like somewhere straight out of a Famous Five adventure, but it’s true! The receding tide reveals a 570m ancient stone causeway leading to the Island’s fantastic rock pools, priory ruins, RAMSAR-designated wetlands and the ‘Venus Pool’, a natural swimming pool formed in the rocks.

You can only access Lihou Island on certain low tides, so be sure to check the tide times ahead of your day trip exploring the magnificent wildlife and swimming in our little island.
These boots were made for walking

Walking is one of the best ways to see our glorious Islands.

Whether you’re an ambler, a rambler or a serious hiker, you can choose your own pace to explore the Islands of Guernsey.

Take one of the wildflower-lined footpaths that lead off some of our main roads and suddenly you are on the spectacular south coast cliff paths. These routes are dotted with entry and exit points so when your legs get tired you can stop off at one of the cafés and kiosks along the path for a well-deserved cuppa and slice of Gâche or ice-cream (with a view).

If the cliffs are a little adventurous, the sandy flats of the western and northern coasts are just as exhilarating, but not quite as exhausting. Amazing views are everywhere you look, whether you choose to roam alone or go on one of the many informative guided walks that are available.

Take a look at some of our best routes to explore on foot: www.visitguernsey.com/walking

In bloom

If you’re a keen gardener, there are some lovely gardens, both public and private that are well worth a visit.

We have two RHS-recommended gardens, a Chelsea Flower Show garden and large public gardens at Saumarez Park.

Candie Gardens, the award-winning, restored Victorian gardens, offer spectacular views across St Peter Port harbour and beyond, and are home to the oldest known heated glass houses in the British Isles, along with a new garden dedicated to Victor Hugo.

Sausmarez Manor features in ‘1001 Gardens to visit Before You Die’. Wander through the winding paths and jungle-like glades to find yourself amongst subtropical and uncommon plants like Giant Geraniums and Banana trees.

Tours are available around Herm’s award-winning gardens and over in Sark, La Seigneurie gardens, the grounds to the traditional residence of the Seigneur of Sark, has many unusual plants thriving within the walled garden, ensuring a colourful display from Spring through to Autumn.

Head to our northern Isle in late Spring for Bloomin’ Alderney, a festival of open gardens that see some of the finest garden gates being flung open for the public to have a look around.
The beach is calling

Here in the Islands of Guernsey we are spoilt for choice when it comes to our beautiful beaches.

From the secluded coves of the south to the long sweeping sands of the west and north, relaxing on our beaches is just what you need.

Abandon your shoes and feel the soft golden sands between your toes, build epic sandcastles and explore our low tide rock pools, snorkel in our sheltered coves and find your spot on our uncrowded beaches.

If you get peckish, pop up to one of our many beach kiosks and cafés for homemade lunches, cakes and local ice-cream. Or, you could fire up a barbecue by the shore or eat fish and chips looking out to sea.

With one of the largest tidal ranges in the world, our beaches are constantly changing.

Jump into our crystal clear waters (it’s ok once you’re in...), kayak the coastline, surf, paddleboard, or, for the more adventurous, try your hand at coasteering, a mix of rock scrambling, cliff jumping and swimming.

There are ancient caves to explore, natural and man-made saltwater pools and sheltered bays that are just perfect for a paddle.

Our coastline is nature’s playground. Do as much or as little as you like.

Whether you take a kayak or a book, you’ll feel rested after a few hours on one of our lovely beaches.

VAZON BAY

PORT SOIF

BELVOIR BAY, HERM
Sea swimming – it’s time to dive in

As an Island community we have long championed the benefits of sea swimming. It’s what we do but, until recently, there were only a hardy few who took to our waters all year round.

But in a year when our mental health has never been more important, more of us began taking the plunge 12 months a year.

There is a growing weight of evidence to suggest that cold water swimming can help not only our physical health but also improve our mental wellbeing. Immersing yourself in cold water boosts dopamine levels and increases the release of endorphins. It gives you the feel-good factor. And there’s no better place to give it a go than the clear waters of the Islands of Guernsey.

While many of us chose to swim alone, groups of all-weather swimmers, of all shapes and sizes, ages and abilities, have been gaining momentum. When you combine that sense of camaraderie, together with the exercise and the views, it’s easy to see why swimming outdoors has such a profound effect on our sense of wellbeing.

Some swimmers like a real challenge, which our bays and saltwater pools at La Vallette are ideal for, but most like a dip, then a cuppa from their Thermos and a chinwag, or a Sunday roast at a cosy seafront restaurant. As you’d expect, all are welcoming, all you need is your swimmers and some Dutch courage.
Welcome to our Island Zoo

The Islands of Guernsey Zoo is like no other. A place where there are no boundaries for the inhabitants who happily live here by choice.

The wildlife and birds who choose to make the Islands their home have complete freedom in our uncrowded cliff perches, wetlands and waters.

It's so good that the dolphins came for a summer a few years ago and never left. They are often out playing in the wake of boats, kayaks and jet skis in the waters between the Islands, providing truly memorable moments for those aboard.

Swimmers often have playful seals for company, mooching around the Islands from the rocks they call home up around the Humps to the north of Herm.

The Islands have two RAMSAR protected sites, Lihou Island and the surrounding wetlands as well as Herm, Jethou and the Humps. These wetlands, which are still accessible to visitors, are five star accommodation for the rare species that have moved in.

Plants also flourish in the Islands with the Wild Orchid meadows in flower in May and June and the Guernsey Lily in late September. And, all year round, you will be able to spot some of the 150 species of birds that call us home, including the Eurasian spoonbill, red kites, and the European bee-eater.

Between April and July, the Puffins nest high of Herm’s cliff edges and are bobbing in the waters around the Islands, distinguishable by their brightly-coloured beaks.

They are all able to thrive in this natural environment all year round, and we are lucky enough to live alongside in awe.
It’s time to go out out again!

In a year when going out for a meal became a distant memory and cocktails with friends was something we could only dream of, it’s finally time to celebrate.

If you’ve missed the buzz of busy, but not crowded, restaurants, the view from your favourite café, the drink that just doesn’t taste the same when you’re at home or an indulgent breakfast in bed, it’s time. It’s time to make that booking, to look forward to the simple things again.

To toast great food, with great company, in great restaurants.

As Islanders we are so used to being spoilt for choice that we forget just how good our food offering is here on the Islands.

Where the gin is distilled in the hotel you’re staying in and the crab in the sandwich at the beach kiosk was caught in the very bay it overlooks.

Where the crunchy batter on your beachside fish and chips is as good as your ice cold local beer sat in the sun on your hotel balcony. The tomatoes taste like tomatoes because they were ripened on our cliffside greenhouses and the lobster is the best you’ve tasted, because it was landed a couple of hours before it was served.

The down time that COVID-19 provided resulted in a flurry of new businesses. New micro-breweries have cropped up and home bakers have flourished into full time jobs and fabulous new hedge veg stalls.

Food has brought us joy, in a year that, quite frankly, under-delivered in that department.

We have become more sustainable and more mindful of our food miles which means our food and drink is even better than it was before. And it was already among the best in the British Isles, and one of the reasons why we’ve been named the British Isle’s gastronomic hotspot in the Good Food Guide.

With more than 200 places to eat, the only thing you need to pack is your stretchy trousers.
Time well spent

The Islands of Guernsey offer short haul escapism. This is wellness but not as we know it.

This isn’t a spa break or an all-inclusive yoga retreat, it’s a glass (or two) of really good wine, with someone you love, under the stars with no interruptions, it’s a morning cuppa listening to the sound of the sea, it’s not setting your alarm:

The last couple of years have been difficult. Many of you have been separated from loved ones for extended periods of time. You’ve been under more pressure than ever, life has been a real juggle.

Yes, we have incredible cliff paths to run on, clear waters to dive into and beach yoga, you can even have a go standing on a paddle board, but you can also come here and do absolutely nothing.

You deserve a break. Wellness used to mean me-time, but now it also means us-time. Spending time with those you love, getting out in the fresh air, eating well and getting a good night’s sleep are what we all need.

The Islands of Guernsey is ready to welcome you for your perfect getaway, whatever it is you need to feel you again.
You don’t have to wander far to uncover our rich history

From Neolithic burial ruins to Roman Forts and World War II bunkers, you can step into the past and relive thousands of years of the Islands’ history.

Our past isn’t consigned to history books. It’s in towers you can climb, ancient stone carvings you can touch, a unique (little) chapel you can play hide and seek in and museums that encourage you to interact.

Find out how a Prince brought wallabies to Herm, a London underground train ended up in Alderney, a formidable Dame stood up to invading troops at the beginning of the German Occupation.

The Channel Islands were the only part of the British Isles to be occupied during World War II, and the Islands of Guernsey lived under German control from June 1940 to May 1945.

During the Occupation, German troops fortified the Islands, building bunkers and tunnels and adapting existing defences, which can all still be visited today.

Our history isn’t just in the walls, it’s in its people. This part of our history, which is still in living memory for some of our Island residents, provided the inspiration for the best-selling novel, and film adaptation, ”The Guernsey Literary and Potato Peel Pie Society”.

Today, you can walk in their footsteps, with both guided and self-guided tours, and find out about the real people who inspired these characters.
Surrounded by stunning scenery, peace and quiet, and time for yourself, it’s no surprise that arts and literature flourish in the islands.

Visit our cultural hotspots, or let them revive your own creativity.

Celebrate our culture

In 1883 French Impressionist, Pierre-Auguste Renoir, spent a month in Guernsey. He was often found on the rocky south coast, painting 15 masterpieces, all depicting views of Moulin Huet Bay and you can follow his footsteps on our Renoir Walk.

Here, five specially crafted picture frames invite you to stand in the exact spots where Renoir worked on his paintings, so you can see the landscape just as he did. And today, the bay and beyond still continue to inspire works of art by both residents and visitors.

You can find pieces by local artists in The Guernsey Museum & Art Gallery, as well as working studios dotted around the Islands.

Or why not book onto a photography tour that will take you to the Islands’ most scenic viewpoints? You’re sure to capture some absolutely stunning shots.

Writer and poet Victor Hugo landed on Guernsey in October 1855, exiled from his native France. He soon fell in love with the Island and during his 15 years here he wrote many of his most-famous works, including Les Misérables, Toilers of the Sea and The Man Who Laughs. He even dedicated Toilers of the Sea to Guernsey, calling us “the rock of hospitality and freedom.”

You can surround yourself in the space where he wrote his masterpieces, the recently renovated Hauteville House. The only home Hugo ever owned, the house was lovingly designed and decorated by Hugo and gives a great insight into his daily life.

And before you enter the gardens of Hauteville House, you can take a guided or self-guided, 2-hour walk around St Peter Port following in the author’s footsteps to some of his favourite haunts.

Hugo’s home, Hauteville House, is now a museum run by the City of Paris.
The Islands for all seasons

Gone are the days of the big two week summer holiday, we are now looking for more. More short breaks throughout the year, more to look forward to.

Thanks to our milder climate, summer feels like it lasts longer here in the Islands. We are still dragging our barbecues down to the beach well into September, when the air is warm, and so is the sea.

As we drift into autumn, the Island’s coastlines become a little wilder and cliff paths are carpeted with autumn leaves. Stroll at your own pace, stopping at clifftop shops and cafés or join the Guides leading the Autumn Walking Festival.

Stretch your legs on our scenic walks, blow the cobwebs away with a blustery beach walk or maybe brave our waters and go for a dip, then head to one of our restaurants for a cosy, fireside lunch.

Here in the Islands, we have a vibrant community that loves going out, so whatever time of the year you visit you’ll be eating in busy restaurants. This is particularly true in October, when we celebrate eating out for less with the Tennerfest, when it’s cheaper to eat out, than it is to stay at home.

Pop on an extra layer and head over to our sister Islands for a wander, all the Islands are just as beautiful when the air is crisp. Why not stay over and take advantage of the dark, clear skies for some of the best star-gazing in the British Isles?
If you’ve always dreamt of getting married barefoot on the sand at sunset, or with a sweeping panoramic clifftop view as your backdrop, get married in the Islands of Guernsey.

The Islands provide a wonderful choice for your wedding destination with unique venues, breath-taking landscapes and beautiful islands all waiting to welcome you and host your perfect day.

With new marriage laws now in place, you can get married anywhere in Guernsey, Alderney, Herm and Sark.

We know there are many hundreds, if not thousands, of you who have had to put plans for your big day on pause because of COVID.

As we all start to tentatively make plans again, we would be thrilled if you chose the Islands of Guernsey to celebrate your special day, in front of all your family and friends.

It’s time to dream big. Then let us make it come true.

Love Island
Here in Guernsey, we are proud of our culture and heritage, and love to celebrate it whenever we can. Actually, we just love celebrating. Whether it’s weekend-long music festivals to traditional fayres and shows, walking, food and heritage festivals to live music in the parks, town and seaside, we just love having a great time here in the Islands of Guernsey.

In the summer, our heritage sites become concert venues and our seafront becomes an endless sea of market stalls. You can turn your hand to raft making and set sail during Alderney week or build your own flying machine and launch into the St Peter Port marina during Guernsey’s Harbour Carnival; Watch sheep race in Sark or settle in to the Beer and Ale Festival in Herm.

We love celebrating, especially at the moment.

We know how fortunate we have been recently to continue enjoying many of the events that those around the world have been unable to. We can’t wait for you to join us soon.

Located in the heart of St Peter Port, the historic and award-winning Old Government House Hotel & Spa offers the most magnificent views over the harbour and neighbouring Islands.

One of Guernsey’s best-known landmarks, The OGH (as it is affectionately known) was originally the official residence of the island’s Governor. A light menu is available throughout the day and there’s also a special Wine Tasting Room for guests. The location is in the middle of St Martins, which has small, narrow roads bordered by really pretty houses.

The staff are great, so helpful and cheerful – special thanks to the reception staff here, lots of local tips to make the most of our short stay. We opted for a larger pool view room. It was spacious with great bathroom/shower. The restaurant is fantastic. We had a fish night and then a meat night. The shellfish was immense. Ribeye steaks were succulent. Breakfasts offered good choice, were freshly cooked to order and the “full Guernsey” was hard to resist. Had a wonderful time – thanks to everyone at La Barbarie.” (Di B on TripAdvisor, 2020).
